

TRAIN WRECK DELAYS OPENING OF THEATRE

The first performance at the new Garden theatre which was to have been given this afternoon, had to be postponed when it was learned that two of the twelve acts on the bill could not show.

One act went into a ditch with a train on its way here and another arrived too late to get its "props" set up. E. P. Churchill, general manager, said he would not open without a full bill.

Those who held tickets for the afternoon performance were allowed to look through the new playhouse and their money refunded or their tickets exchanged for another date. The two acts will be here in time for the evening performance.
