

New Theater Started For Winter Garden

Special to Orlando Morning Sentinel

WINTER GARDEN, March 12—

Work has begun on the new Winter Garden theatre, owned by C. M. Biggers, manager. This new $10,000 building is located between Pounds Motor Co., and the site where the old theatre stood before it burned. Opening date is tentatively set for April.

The building will be of the latest construction best adapted to sound pictures and will be absolutely fire-proof, conforming to state and federal safety regulations, Mr. Biggers says. It will be of steel and concrete construction and with a seating capacity of 500.

Plans were drawn so a balcony can be added later which will materially increase the capacity.