

Capacity Crowd Attends First Night at State

South San Francisco's new $125,000 showhouse, the State Theater, was presented to the public Friday by A. J. Eschelbach, president of the Bay Shore Theater corporation amid the applause of a capacity crowd. Dr. J. C. McGovern, Supervisor Thomas L. Hickey, Mayor J. P. Quinlan, City Attorney J. W. Coleberd and County Tax Collector Ambrose McSweeney addressed the audience, congratulating Eschelbach and his associates for their courage and foresight in erecting the theater, and urging the people of the community to give it the support it deserves. James Connelly sang two baritone solos and the show was on.

The feature of next week's program is "Miracle Woman", starring Barbara Stanwyck, playing next Tuesday and Wednesday.
