

BLACKPOOL'S LATEST

Even the wonders of a modern liner would pale beside the new Blackpool Winter Gardens, which have just been completed, and where synthetic "sunshine," so realistic that one lives in continual expectation of a rainbow, spreads warmly over a Spanish courtyard with the wooded hills of Andalusia peeping above the terraced verandah.

Covering six acres of land are banqueting and reception rooms, such that 2,000 people can be served with a five-course dinner at one time.

There is a restaurant in the Italian Renaissance period, another in the Georgian design, a baronial hall of the English Carolean period, and a galleon refreshment lounge.
